NEW STREET LIGHTING PLAN TAKES INTEREST OF JUNIOR CHAMBER

Expert Outlines Modern
Method In Talk Before
Young Men Monday.

Pointing out the inadequacy of the present street lighting system in Niles from a standpoint of modern needs H. H. Robinson, Pacific Gas and Electric Company lighting expert, outlined the cost and nature of a new installation for the town to the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Robinson, assisted by W. O. Stevens, illustrated his talk with two types of fixtures, showing the vast advance in street lighting since the early days. Robinson explained how rural street lighting is financed in Alameda county, and told of curtailment of lighting funds. He outlined the procedure of forming a lighting district, and gave costs and tax rates for several installations. He stated that he would write the group in the next few weeks, including an exact estimate of costs.

The lighting plan, as drawn up by the junior group, calls for the installation of 600 or 1000 candle power fixtures on each pole on First street, similar to the three already installed between G and H streets. Included in the plan is a change of lights on Second and Third streets, the new type to employ refractors to cast light to the center of the block.

Following a report on the county meeting by Al. Lanfri, and a report on the directors' meeting by Rinaldo Cozzi, Guido Tuana, in charge of installation of the hill sign, asked that more money be appropriated. The sum was granted, and construction of the permanent monument will be started this week.

A bonus of $25 was voted for any member of the group who was instrumental in bringing a business or industry to Niles which would employ ten or more workers.

RUNKLE TO BE ARRAIGNED ON DRUNK COUNT TOMORROW

Arrested After Crashing
Into Car Near Centerville Recently

C. H. Runkle, Jr., arrested recently on a charge of drunken driving, when his car is alleged to have crashed into one owned by Leonard Lucio, of Centerville, will be arraigned before Judge Allen G. Norris, at the Centerville court house tomorrow afternoon.

Runkle, who is said to have suffered a slight concussion in the crash, was unable to appear last Friday, the original date for his arraignment. The complaint was signed by Highway Patrolman C. R. Avillar and Leonard Lucio.

NILES SCOUTS WILL BE ACTIVE DURING SPRING MONTHS

Number of patrols in the Niles Boy Scouts has been reduced from three to two, according to Clarence Crane, scoutmaster, who stated that the change was a temporary one pending enrollment of more boys. The Eagle patrol has been absorbed by the Beaver and Rattlesnake groups. Crane said that the troop has a standing enrollment of seven-teen boys, including the junior assistant scoutmaster and the senior patrol leader.

Plans for spring work for the troop, Crane said, include the designing and manufacture of willow and rough log furniture for the scout house. The boys make the pieces with the assistance of the leaders. Later in the year the troop will embark on a toy gathering and repairing campaign, for the purpose of supplying toys for distribution by charitable organizations at Christmas time.

Families throughout the district are urged to save old toys, and get them into the hands of the scouts.

Additional spring work for the boys will consist of cleaning up the yard at the scout house and erecting the flag pole.

At present, the troop is being drilled in outdoor cooking in preparation for first and second class tests. Crane's assistants are: Charles Myrick, junior assistant scoutmaster, and Tom Estudillo, senior patrol leader.

Crane said that a number of hikes and outings will form a part of the summer activities.

GUILD LUNCHEON

The Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church, Niles, entertained at a luncheon in the church parlors last Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-five were present. Each member contributed to the table of refreshments.

REFEREE HOLDS ACT CONSTITUTIONAL AT SLOAN HEARING

Of great interest to landowners in California is a decision reached yesterday by Burton J. Wyman, referee in bankruptcy, holding that the Frazier-Lemke amendment is constitutional. Wyman reached this decision in the Sloan-Hirsch foreclosure case, being heard by him.

E. H. Hirsch, attempting to foreclose on the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Sloan, of Irvington, has been attempting to have the law set aside.

In declaring the amendment constitutional, Wyman quoted the Radford case, now pending before the supreme court, after being held constitutional in all the lower courts. The Sloan case is almost identical.

CIVIC GROUP WILL ASK REGULAR WATER RELEASE METHODS

Concerned Over Fate Of Canyon As Tourist
Attraction

Concerned with the condition of Niles canyon as a tourist attraction, and with the welfare of the surrounding district, the Niles Chamber of Commerce went on record Monday as opposed to any plan whereby the regular water releases will be piped down the canyon and across the Niles-Irvington fault line.

The decision came after a short talk by E. A. Ellsworth, who stated that officials of the water district were considering a plan to have a special water release piped from Sunol in this manner. Ellsworth, F. B. Kirk and E. F. Glassbrook were appointed as a committee of three to keep posted on developments in the water situation.

At present, water flowing under the road bridge at Niles, is being released from the pipe terminal in Clark's canyon, and is not flowing through Niles canyon. The chamber is opposed to this practice.

Voting unanimously in favor of retention of the present road maintenance system, the civic group voted to protest against acquisition of all county roads by the state system, a matter now pending before the state legislature.

The organization voted to discontinue membership in the state chamber of commerce, but final action was delayed until next week, when A. J. Petsche will deliver a talk on the value of membership in the state group.

Following a report on the baseball team by H. L. Scott, E. F. Glassbrook gave an interesting illustrated talk on the mechanics of water meters. He explained how water may be wasted in the home, to an extent that causes a sharp rise in water bills.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gomes, of Niles, were hosts at a dinner party in San Jose, recently, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gomes, their son and his bride, who were recently wed at Reno.

Mrs. E. C. Wood, of Mill Valley, with her son, Edwin, Jr., spent the week-end as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bendel. On Sunday the Bendels entertained Colonel and Mrs. C. S. Bendel, San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davies, of Oakland.

WATER DISTRICT WILL PROCEED WITH PLAN TO UTILIZE EXTRA WATER

LEAGUE OFFICIALS TO MEET TONIGHT AT NEWARK

Arrangements of the schedule of games, and discussion of organization details will be some of the business before the officials and managers of the new South County Baseball League, when they meet tonight at Joe Paschote's garage, at Newark.

The number of teams entered was swelled to six last week with the entrance of a Decoto team, to be sponsored by the new Junior Chamber of Commerce in that city. J. Vargas will be manager. It is thought that no more nines will enter prior to the start of the season early in April.

Permanent umpires will be selected by the managers tonight, league officials said, if satisfactory arrangements can be made. Three men, known to be good officials will be chosen to bear the brunt of the umpiring throughout the entire season. An extra man will be named, to replace one of the regulars should the occasion arise.

A board, to sit in event of disputes, will be selected from among the ranks of Washington township men who are known to have an interest in the game, and a thorough knowledge of the rules.

To do away with opportunity for disagreement in the handling of funds after each game, it has been decided that the home team will bear all the expenses, such as balls, umpire pay and so on, and take all of the gate receipts. H. L. Scott, league president, is pleased with progress to date, and declares that the new set-up will merit the interest and support of Washington township fans.

Niles People Unhurt In Minor Accident

Mrs. Geo. C. Roeding, Jr., her two small sons and their nurse, all escaped injury Saturday night in a minor automobile accident when their car was struck by one driven by Frank Cesari, also of Niles. Cesari was not hurt. The accident occurred on the Niles-Centerville road at about 5 p. m. Both cars were slightly damaged.

New Service Station Will Be Opened Soon

J. E. Champion's new service station, at the intersection of First and G streets, Niles, will soon be open for business, according to Champion this week. Built entirely by himself and his son, Charles, Champion's station vastly improves the appearance of West First street.

Formal opening for the new station will be after the shrubs and flowers are planted and the runways graveled.

Teeter Case Continued At Oakland Court

An alleged hit-run case, involving Earl Teeter, of Niles, was continued again Friday, when it came before an Oakland superior court.

Teeter was arrested early last December when his car was said to have been involved in a minor accident with one driven by Paul Skanderson, of Hayward. The crash, in which one was injured, occurred at the first bridge in Niles Canyon.

Release To Be Piped Over Fault; Decision of Board Saturday

Plans to proceed with the laying of a pipeline from the old Spring Valley main on the Niles-Centerville road to a large gravel hole southwest of Niles were drawn up Saturday at a special meeting of the water district directors, held at the Washington Union High school, Centerville. Permission to tap the old line was granted by the Public Utilities Commission of San Francisco.

Purpose of the proposed line is to utilize an extra water release being asked of the city of San Francisco this summer. Hoping to raise well-levels west of the Niles-Irvington fault to a point where salt water incursion will be stopped, the district directors plan to pipe the "extra" water across the fault by means of the old main, and release it into the gravels near the Western Pacific railroad bridge. To pacify farmers east of the fault, who objected to the proposal to "skip" the release over the fault, the district will allow a six-inch stream to flow into Alameda creek at Clark's canyon, near the Niles canyon mouth. This six-inch stream will percolate into gravels east of the fault line. According to reports, reason for lifting the "extra" release over the fault is to avoid raising the level east of the line to such a point that low land in the region of Irvington will be flooded, with resultant suits. As far as could be determined, no land owners in the low sections have objected. One, W. B. Kirk, stated that he had no intention of causing trouble if his land were flooded.

Members of the board state that a public meeting will be called in about two weeks, when the results of interviews with landowners will be given out, thus showing the consensus of opinion on the plan.

Construction of the 24-inch line from the old main on the Centerville road to the gravel hole will begin sometime this month. The project will take about 2000 feet of 24-inch pipe.

This "extra" release has nothing to do with the regular annual water release, according to a letter from Will Patterson, board head. The extra water is being borrowed from the city of San Francisco, with the assurance that it will be paid back on demand. That the regular release in future years will come down the canyon as in the past, is the hope of the Niles Chamber of Commerce, and other interested groups, who look to the time when Niles Canyon will regain some of its former beauty and attraction for tourists.

The extra water, to be piped across the fault will amount to three times as much as the usual spring 15 per cent release.

The first annual payment of $10,000, toward redeeming of the $25,000 bonds issued in 1931, was voted at the Saturday meet. The bonds were for the purchase of the pumping rights of the East Bay Water District at Alvarado. The cessation of pumping there has saved the water district about 8,000,000 gallons per day.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

IT KNOCKED US GALLEY WEST

The Oakland Tribune can be very amusing. We have been reading it for seven years and we cannot recall an instance when the paper editorially expressed a positive conviction. But it came very near doing so in its last Saturday's issue. It really was very surprising as well as quite funny in a little piece about the Townsend Plan.

The editorial chameleon was not up to his general ability of making good on a plaid shawl. The scribe said, apparently without qualification, that Governor Merriam's opinions were sound (in contrast with Sinclair's) before election. But the pity of it—they are so, no longer!

The Tribune, together with all other good citizens, supported Merriam. It had faith in him; it loved him; it adored him. But alas and alack; the man has changed! His judgment is no longer sound, his leadership no longer trustworthy. His views became clouded and his political philosophy unsafe.

The Tribune is flabbergasted.

And why?

Because Merriam is supporting the Townsend Plan—something that no boni-fide friend of capital should do. Worse, he has presisted with his scheme to memorialize Congress to pass such a bill, and at this session of the national legislature. Even young Knowland, son of Joseph, the millionaire, could not make him desist from his foolish sympathy for the aged. The governor proclaimed an old age pension a good thing to enact, as well as an issue on which to run. And so the Tribune parts with the safe and sane Merriam—the very man who, but a few months ago it screamed from its front pages, had saved California, in fact the world—from the Anarchist and Athiest Upton.

We are going to paste that Saturday editorial up in our sanctum sanctorum. We have the Tribune pinned almost to a positive statement.

It is startling!

Don't tell us it doesn't—the world do move, by Gad!

SCRAPPING A TREATY— IT'S W A R ! SCRAPPING WAR DEBTS—IT'S A JOKE

A frank and ingenious statement seems to have caused a great stir in Western Europe, and almost a rip-tide in America. Candidness is so rare that the world was taken unawares, and for a few weeks doubtless will be in a bad state of flux.

It has been generally known by the allied nations that Germany was violating the Versailles treaty as it pertained to arms limitation for the Teutonic race. Certainly the secret service operatives of every important nation on earth knew just what Hitler was doing. And while he was doing it, and not admitting it, apparently it was not disturbing. Then, out of an alleged clear sky, the little Austrian, dictator extraordinary, tells the world in a fiery proclamation that Germany is going to raise its standing army to a half million men, is going to conscript its youth for military service, and construct the greatest fleet of air craft seen in the heavens.

This action, said only to be contemplated, is already, generally, an accomplished fact, and no government in Europe or elsewhere is so uninformed as not to have known the truth. But for Germany to boldly admit a treaty violation—in fact flaunt it in the face of an "outraged" world—apparently becomes a great disturbing force. The disciplined child kicks the professor in the shinn, and tells him to take two long jumps and go to hell.

This offers an excuse for the press, inspired by interested nations and affected industries, to cry, "WAR, WAR!" But there is no war, nor likely to be. The universe is not nearer to the conflagration of general hostilities than a month ago, a year ago.

Only a very narrow, bigoted person will contend that Germany has no right to arm, to protect her interests. She, as well as any other country, has not only a right, but a duty to be prepared to repel invasion and repulse insult. That does not

Conserve Moisture by Plowing Early

Average Rainfall Is Not Enough to Fill Soil to Its Field Capacity.

By Richard Bradford, Agronomist at Ohio State University—WNU Service.
Plow as early as possible to conserve moisture. It is high time for us to be thinking rather seriously about the drought problem, and ways to reduce its ravages. Rough plowed land, if there is no danger of erosion, is an ideal condition for absorbing the heavy rains that are hoped for early in the year.

Every foot of soil of average texture is capable of storing and holding against the pull of gravity the equivalent of about three inches of rainfall. In a soil eight feet deep, this is a storage capacity of 24 inches.

If every drop of normal rainfall from now until April 1 runs into the soil, the total is 9 or 10 inches, which is only half enough to fill our soil to its field capacity.

From 300 to 1,000 pounds of water are required by growing plants to produce one pound of dry matter. A single corn stalk may absorb and transpire through its leaves as much as 55 gallons of water during its development. This amounts for a full stand of corn to over 20 inches of water, an amount in excess of the average rainfall during the corn-growing season. The difference must be drawn from the reserve of moisture accumulated in the soil in winter and early spring months.

Sweet Clover Is Put to Front as Soil Crop

Once considered a weed, sweet clover has had to bear the brunt of protecting fertility levels of thousands of acres of farm land during the depression period when farmers have not had the cash for mineral fertilizers. It is pointed out by L. B. Miller, associate in soil experiment fields at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Until 1929 the use both of commercial fertilizers and of sweet clover was on the increase. That year some 38,864 tons of factory-produced fertilizer were applied in the state. At the same time the sweet clover acreage amounted to something less than 800,000.

However, applications of commercial fertilizer have declined to a fourth of the peak year, while sweet clover acreages have continued to increase. By 1931 a total of 856,000 acres in Illinois were devoted to growing sweet clover largely for soil improvement purposes. With the coming of the government's adjustment programs in 1933 and 1934, wherein AAA contracted land could be sown to legumes and at the same time get benefit payments, sweet clover acreage is believed to have reached the million mark.

Inoculated sweet clover provides an efficient fertilizer factory on any farm having sweet soil and a fair supply of the major mineral plant foods. Besides its value as a green manure, the legume is well known for its ability to provide abundant pasture, or it may be harvested for seed. In years when cash expenditures for factory fertilizer were impractical, Illinois farmers who had limed land were quick to take advantage of the triple value of sweet clover, and particularly for general soil improvement.

Tasting Milk

During winter farmers often find that milk, fresh from the cow, is bitter and many of them have attributed this to alfalfa hay or other feed together with the scarcity of green grass. While it is true some feeds, such as weeds, some kinds of leaves and other herbage can cause bitter milk, and that sometimes a cow herself may be off condition and give bitter or salty milk, the usual cause of bitter milk during winter is the cool temperature which retards the development of certain bacteria. The bacteria which cause the bitter taste grow when temperatures are low while the bacteria which make milk sweet grow at warmer temperatures. Thus in cold weather one might properly say that the bacteria content is out of balance, causing bitter milk, and the cow's diet has nothing to do with it—Missouri Farmer.

Control Disease; Quarantine Urged

Every Precaution Should Be Taken to Halt the Spread of Infection.

By Dr. C. D. Grinnell, Dairy Investigation, N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station—WNU Service.

Diseased animals should be quarantined to prevent the spread of infection. Quarantine not only protects the healthy animals, but it also facilitates the treatment of diseased animals.

Introducing new animals into a herd without quarantining them for a period of 30 to 40 days is not favored. If at the end of the period they are found to be free from disease, then it is considered safe to place them in the herd.

While in quarantine the animals should be watched closely for any trace of disease. The period necessary to keep the animals under close observation varies, depending upon where the new animals came from, the type of animal, and its physical condition.

Animals collected from different farms, assembled in public stock yards, and shipped long distances are dangerous sources of infection, as they are exposed to many chances for catching disease at a time when their resistance is lowered.

But animals which have been housed only short distances are also liable to become infected, while many come from herds where disease is present. The need for precaution is necessary whenever bringing new stock into a herd.

A few infected animals can spread disease through a whole herd in a few days, and it is risky to wait a day or two before putting the new stock into quarantine, even though there is no apparent indication of disease.

Where Oases Get Their Water

A few persons claim that the oases of the desert get their water from highland regions, where there is a more constant rainfall, but this is not generally accepted as an explanation. The underground rock rivers and the few basins of collected rainfall probably account for most desert oases.

Sidewalk Cafe

By LEONORA WOODWARD
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

THE rain swept suddenly down upon Fifth avenue and drove the diners indoors. All but Constance who left her young man for a gap in the boxed hedge and ducked around the nearest corner.

"And that's that," murmured Constance settling herself as comfortably as possible, meaning that she had written a rather clever ending to an evening of adventure. Meaning that if a girl has been so indiscreet as to pick up a man, the better part of valor lies in flight.

Once back in her hotel room, surveying her rain-drenched self in the mirror, all fear vanished and all sense of shame as well. She was glad that she had got dust in her eye and had to have it removed by the best looking man in New York!

It had all happened because she had spent a two weeks' vacation in New York alone and this had been her last night. And dining all by yourself in one of those romantic sidewalk cafes between Madison and Washington squares wasn't so pleasant if you remembered that very shortly you must return to Mr. Berring and his typewriter back in Midvale.

The best looking young man she had ever seen was dining just a few tables away quite alone.

A bit of Fifth avenue lodged in her eye. If felt more like the Empire State building, although it came out at the first dab of Constance's handkerchief. But Constance, discarding all her aunt's teachings, had continued to wipe her eye and had even moaned a little for good measure. It had worked! The tall blond young man had left his seat to offer assistance. He had said: "You see, I've had a great deal of experience; my mother was always getting things in her eye. So if you'll permit me—"

Constance had submitted bravely to having her ridiculously long lashes rolled back on a match and to having the corner of a very large, very clean linen handkerchief inserted in a perfectly clear eye.

"There!" the young man had announced at last.

So the blond young man moved over and they lingered over coffee and cigarettes. They exchanged names and other unimportant information which on Constance's part, at least, was strictly misleading.

She still preferred to be a New Yorker down for her shopping. His name was Bill Maynard.

Bill was saying: "You're a real person, Constance. I mean—real." Constance had wanted to say that she wasn't real, at least she wasn't what he thought her. She wanted to tell him that she was just a stenographer from the Middle West enjoying a vacation in New York.

"I'd like you to meet my mother. She's a darling. Taught me to scrub behind my ears; that hard work never hurt anyone; and not to tell lies."

"So many people do," murmured poor Constance, "tell lies, I mean."

"You couldn't," Bill had said confidently.

How could she tell him then?

A few days later she was walking the streets of her home town, jobless.

She knew she ought to be registering at an employment agency but nothing seemed to matter now. She had lost her job and Bill. She looked at a store set back from the sidewalk and thought, "What a grand place for a sidewalk cafe."

Then said sternly to herself: "Look here, Constance, this won't do, you know. You've got to be nonchalant," and took out her compact to repair the damages from not being nonchalant.

After that she felt better. She could even face the wind which was blowing off Main street and then it happened again! All the dirt from Main street was in her eye and no amount of rubbing did any good.

She turned blindly toward the nearest door. She'd have to sit down and find her handkerchief; she'd have to find some one to help her. Only there wasn't any Bill now.

Some one inside was taking her elbow, leading her to a seat. A professional voice murmured, "It's rather dusty, isn't it? Now if you'll just hold still a moment—"

And then gentle, efficient fingers were rolling back her ridiculously long lashes.

"There, do you want to see what did the damage?"

Constance opened her eyes. She saw a glass case filled with eye glasses above which was a sign "We Are Glad to Remove Dust from Your Eyes Free of Charge." She looked up and there was—

"Bill!"

"Constance!"

"But how, when, where—" It simply couldn't be true.

"You darling! Did you think I'd let you get away so easily? In all that nonsense you told me, you had said you were stopping at the Treymore. And when I found that you were from Midvale, well, Midvale was as good a place to hunt for a job as any, so—"

"You found a job and I lost one."

"You only need one job in a family," said Bill confidently.

"I hadn't," and Constance smiled, "thought of that."

POULTRY

MODEL PULLET SURE TO BE WORTH MORE

Marked Advance in Feed Is Cited as Reason.

By F. H. Branch, Extension Economist in Farm Management, Massachusetts State College—WNU Service.

A well grown pullet in 1935 will cost about $1.50 or approximately 10 per cent more than last year. The increase over last year's cost is caused by a marked advance in feed prices and a moderate increase in labor charges.

In making calculations, it was estimated that in order to obtain 100 healthy pullets, the poultryman must buy 250 baby chicks. About half of them will be cockerels, and some losses probably will be sustained during the brooding and rearing season. The cost of the chicks amounts to about 35 cents per pullet. Feed costs for six or seven months will amount to about 90 cents. The labor of taking care of one pullet in a flock results in about 25 cents' worth of labor being charged against each pullet. Overhead costs, including depreciation and interest on buildings and equipment amount to about 20 cents, and miscellaneous cash costs, such as fuel, litter and grit, come to about 18 cents, bringing the total cost to $1.95 for each pullet.

But a by-product of the business of raising pullets is a supply of cockerels which may be sold as broilers, and the return from broilers is a credit, in calculating the cost of raising pullets. Broilers should be worth about 45 cents each, thus reducing the cost of each pullet to $1.50.

These calculations may serve as a basis for poultrymen in computing the cost of establishing flocks this year.

Sanitary Feeding Urged by College Poultryman

Feeding grain and mash in troughs is the cleanest and most accurate method of supplying the poultry flock with their daily grain ration, says G. W. Knox, Jr., extension poultryman, University College of Agriculture, Fayette, Ark., and it has largely taken the place of the old method, both unsanitary and uncertain, of feeding it in the litter.

The grain is put morning and night into a V-shaped trough, constructed of one by six-inch material. This method is sanitary, and the exact amount of grain the hens consume can be regulated, Knox pointed out. A light feed is given in the morning, and a heavy feeding, all the hens will eat, is given at night. "Some poultrymen prefer to hopper feed their grain, keeping it before the hens at all times. This method is sanitary, but the amount of grain cannot be regulated as easily as in trough feeding," he says.

The exact amount of feed varies with the breed and the season of the year, and the poultryman must learn to regulate the amount of grain his birds will eat.

Ducks Are Sensitive

Ducks are far more sensitive than ordinary fowls, and mistakes in management frequently lead to a complete molt. Do not imagine that free-range ducks can secure half their living during winter months. Ducks in full lay will consume about five ounces of food daily—approximately two ounces of grain and three of wet mash. For grain use wheat, or equal parts of wheat and corn, fed in troughs in the morning, and they love to shovel it out of a trough containing a small quantity of water.—Montreal Herald.

History of the Hour Glass

The invention of the sandglass is ascribed by legend to Luitprand, a monk of Chartres, who at the end of the Eighth century revived the art of blowing glass. Charlemagne in 807 received from Persia a magnificent clepsydra. He then ordered to be made an immense sandglass with the horal divisions marked on the outside. Modern authorities, however, believe that the sandglass antedates these events. The device is shown in Greek sculptures before the Christian era. Its use probably followed close on that of the clepsydra, or may have even preceded it in dry countries, like Egypt and Babylonia.

Like to See Volcano Spout

An erupting volcano usually causes nearby natives to flee in terror. But when Kilauea in the Hawaiian Islands goes into action, thousands drop their work and start for it—by train, steamship and bus—to enjoy the unique pyrotechnic displays, writes F. A. Berger, Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, in Collier's Weekly. They are allowed to stand at its very rim as the actual activity, a giant fountain of lava, is some distance away in the center of the crater, which is 500 feet deep and four square miles in area.

Manufacture of Liquid Air

The manufacture of liquid air is based on the fact that air gets hot on compression and cold on expansion. Air is compressed to a high pressure and then cooled to room temperature, and then part of it is allowed to expand, cooling the rest greatly. This is repeated in more than one stage, eventually resulting in a temperature low enough to liquefy the remaining compressed air.

"Davy Jones' Locker"

"Davy Jones' Locker," is, according to one authority, the sailors' name for the supposed evil spirit of the sea. It has been suggested that "Jones" is derived from "Jonah," the prophet who was thrown into the sea. Thus "Davy Jones' locker" became the bottom of the sea, and a sailor who is said to have "gone to Davy Jones' locker" has died and been buried at sea.—Answers Magazine.

Pewter Candle Molds

Pewter candle molds came into use about 1760 or 1770 and continued to be used extensively. Previously the common method of making candles was by dipping the tallow coated wick until successive layers had brought the candle to the desired thickness.

Do Not Overcrowd

The poultryman who places too many layers in the laying house is headed for small profits and trouble. In small buildings 5 square feet of floor space should be allowed for each bird and in larger ones 3 square feet. If the birds are crowded they will be uncomfortable, competition for feed at the hoppers and for water at the fountains will be keen, they will be more susceptible to disease, and mortality is sure to be heavy. One should aim to have the laying houses not too full and not the opposite.

In the Poultry Yard

The surest way to prevent frozen combs is to provide heat during zero weather.

Unless one has excellent brooder house facilities, no attempt should be made to buy extra early hatched chicks.

If fed a well balanced ration, any variety of breed will lay larger eggs than if they are forced to scratch for a living.

Hybrid chicks are the result of crossing two distinct breeds. Such crossing often makes it possible to determine the sex of the chicks at hatching time by means of plumage color or some other characteristic. Crossbred chicks and sex-linked chicks are the same as hybrids.

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE

... use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

The new Mrs. Oliver had left for Texas on March 3, accompanied by her brother, Stanley Burchell. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Burchell, of Salinas. Oliver, who is widely acquainted in southern Alameda county, is a graduate of the Niles grammar and the Washington Union High schools. He was graduated from the University of California in 1933 as one of the most promising young engineers of his class. While at the university he was associated with several mining honor societies. After his graduation, Oliver spent several months with his parents here, then accepted a post with the Gulf company. His promotion has been rapid, in the year he has been in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Hufendick, of Beaumont, stood with the couple at the wedding. Hufendick, also an engineer, is a former classmate of Oliver's.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver have been extensively entertained at Beaumont. They were guests of honor after the wedding at an affair given by Mr. and Mrs. Leggett, of that city. Leggett is head of the Texas company in that section of the state.

After twenty years of retirement from the foundry business, Fred Burton Snow, 74, died at his Los Gatos home last Thursday. He was well known in Washington township, having managed plants at Newark and Alvarado many years ago.

Snow, who entered the iron working business when he was fifteen years of age, came to this district from Santa Cruz. He established businesses at Livermore, Newark, Alvarado and San Jose before his retirement.

Following the death of his first wife in 1913, Snow married Rebecca Satterthwaite, sister of Abbott Satterthwaite, former Pacific Gas and Electric Company official in this district. She survives her husband. A sister, Mrs. Charles Cleveland lives in Watsonville.

Funeral services were held in Los Gatos Saturday, with interment in the Oak Hill cemetery.

At Irvington another contest is forecast with the filing of Joe Corey against the incumbent, Manuel Joseph. With these two contests, the filing closed Tuesday, with the election to be held on Friday, March 28.

came honorary members at the meeting. Both pledged their utmost support and made a number of suggestions.

A letter from Max E. Shuckl, of the Shuckl Canning Company, was read. The communication gave little hope for the reopening of the Niles cannery in the near future. A committee—Bill Helm, Leon Solon and another to be chosen—will interview Shuckl personally on the matter.

Motions were carried to investigate incorporation of the organization; to look into the water release down the canyon, and to consider a theater party in the near future. Frank Perry was commended on his work in gathering flowers for the Poets' dinner. He had been assisted by Clarence and Lawrence Pine and Joe Martin.

Milton Fournier was the winner of the $2.50 given from the "Kitty."

Next meeting of the organization will be at Niles Grammar school cafeteria on April 1. The Parent-Teachers' Association will serve the dinner.

Among guests at the meet were: Frank Thomas, chairman of the new Decoto Junior Chamber of Commerce; A. L. Costa, also of the Decoto organization, and A. J. Petasche.

Editorial CommentNORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

justify aggression. Aggression can not be justified by any nation.

Germany was whipped, but a nation cannot remain for ever servile, cringing. If it did so, it would lose the respect of its own people, and gain the contempt of all other peoples.

The writer abhors this man Hitler. It abhors Mussolini and Stalin, and all dictators. But the affairs of Germany are not ours, nor yours. If the Teutons like this type of man to lead them, that is their business and not the business of America, and, we might add, nor is it the business of Samuel W. Untermyer, who in a very rash speech, urged that America declare a boycott upon German goods. The gentleman has a personal grievance against Hitler and his policies, but he should remember that first of all he is an American citizen, and indiscrete speeches such as he is making may react against the welfare of the land that has done so much for him and his race.

It is our business to have nothing to do with this business. The suggestion from Great Britain that we join her and France in protesting against the scrapping of the Versailles treaty is unmitigated gall of a most nauseating type. The United States saved the British Empire from crumbling, and the thanks we got was REPUDIATION—the scrapping of a financial treaty!

If European nations cannot compose their differences, nor get along like Christians should; if they must be eternally warring, then let them fight it out on European soil, with European soldiers, and with European DOLLARS.

TOO BAD IT WASN'T TRUE

The rumor current over the township early this week that certain members of the board of supervisors had removed the names of their children from the county pay roll, upon investigation, we find to be erroneous.

While relief funds are rapidly diminishing to the zero point, Supervisor Richmond's boy is still drawing his $165.00 a month and traveling expenses. He carries the title of supervisor of charities.

The board has done nothing further about the man-wife salary crime.

The Township Register hopes by the next issue that it will be able to print a different story—a story of magnanimity, charity, consideration for outraged public opinion. It will be nice to write that the board, even at this late date, has risen above the temptation for personal gain, and displayed real statesmanship and everyday decency by routing Nepotism in Alameda county, and breaking up the outrageous practice of both a husband and wife drawing county pay.

Cause of Trichinosis

Trichinosis is caused by a tiny worm, too small to be seen without a microscope, which lives in the flesh of infected hogs, and if not killed by cooking, infects the person eating the meat from these animals. Trichinosis affects persons of either sex and all ages.

Carrión Flowers

Carrión flowers are members of the milkweed family, natives of South Africa. They derive their name from the odor of the flowers, which suggests decaying animal matter. The thick, fleshy plants resemble a cactus, star cactus being a common name for them.

Many Never Saw Train

On the far northeast corner of Trinidad, cut off from the rest of the island by the rugged mountains of the northern range lies the seaport village of Toco—outlet for much of the produce of the vast cocoa and coconut estates situated in that part of the colony—a self-sufficient hamlet. Many residents of Toco have never been as far from home as Port-of-Spain or seen a train or tramcar. On the other hand, a large percentage of Trinidadians have never seen Toco and practically no visitors at all ever get that far afield, although the drive there is most interesting.

Sap and Wood of Trees Freeze

Both sap and wood of trees freeze in cold weather, but considerably below ordinary freezing temperatures, because of substances in the sap other than water. Since the moisture is evenly distributed, little damage is done by freezing unless the weather is extremely cold and prolonged, in which event serious ruptures of the trunk may occur.—Pathfinder Magazine.

NILES WHIPS RAMOS NINE FOR 14TH STRAIGHT WIN

Loss of three regulars evidently had little effect on the Niles. C. of C.'s scoring ability Sunday, when they chalked up their fourteenth straight win with a 10 to 3 victory over the Ramos Real Estate team, of Hayward.

Ted Dundas, Al Muniz and Duke Dutra, first basemen, third baseman and pitcher, respectively, have left the team to play in the high school league. Considerable shifting of players was needed to fill the gaps. Manager Pine's success in picking his men is shown in the results. He stated that a number of errors prevented his charges from blanking the Hayward nine.

Ray Duarte, back on the mound after a long layoff, let the Ramos boys down with four hits. He fanned six and gave one walk. Tony Duarte led the hitting with three hits, one a homer, in four attempts. Clarence Pine hit two doubles in four tries. Mederos contributed another homer.

Niles scored three runs in the first inning, one in the third, and two more in the fifth when Ray Duarte came home ahead of Mederos' home run. Niles' biggest inning was the sixth, with four runs crossing the rubber.

NEW FIRE ALARM SYSTEM MAY BE INSTALLED

Tightening of rules governing turning in of fire alarms by citizens is to be the outcome of a situation last week in which the Niles firemen were called to their posts by an erroneous signal, hurriedly given when word was received of the blaze at the M. and S. Tile Company plant, Decoto.

The two blasts sounded by the siren, led Niles firemen to believe the blaze was within the town limits, with resulting confusion when its location was unknown.

Rules governing sounding of the siren are: Two blasts for fires within the limits of the town proper and three for fires out of town, but within the district limits.

Fire Chief Tony Alves stated that the department here is to answer calls to other towns only after the fire chief of the endangered town calls personally for assistance.

Chief Alves told of a plan being considered to install a relay and klaxon horn at the fire house in place of the phone bell, to call members of the department to the phone in case of an alarm. Purpose of the installation will be in part to insure that responsible parties turn in the alarm and get the exact location of the blaze. There have been instances in the past when persons have turned in the alarm without first answering phone and learning of the whereabouts of the fire.

Three Simple Steps to Ease a Sore Throat in Three Minutes

Modern Scientific Method Wonderfully Easy

REMEMBER PICTURES HERE

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it. All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in 1/2 glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.
